A project planner template that helps

Six boxes on one page, printable or digital, to take a project from stuck to done.

1

Step 1

Write the finish line

Pick one project and write one sentence about what done looks like. A clear finish line stops it quietly growing.

★ Make done something you can see.

2

Step 2

Add your why

A few honest words on why it matters to you. On low energy days, this is the line you reread.

★ Care about it, not should.

3

Step 3

Break it into tiny actions

List every step, then split anything that still feels big. Start each with a verb, small enough for one sitting.

★ Buy sample pots, not choose paint.

4

Step 4

Give each step a time and date

Guess how long each step takes, then give it a target date. Add a buffer, because most of us guess low.

★ Dates are signposts, not judgments.

5

Step 5

Name stuck points and helpers

Mark the steps you are likely to avoid. Next to each, write one helper: a friend, a timer, a reward.

★ Plan the hard parts ahead.

6

Step 6

Keep it visible, check in weekly

Put it where you look every day. Once a week, tick off what is done, move dates and pick the next three steps.

★ Keep a small done list too.
